205,20 €

The first conference to be dedicated to the archaeology of eastern Turkey was held at Ege University, Izmir, in February 2019. This volume publishes 15 revised versions of papers dealing with issues related to the archaeology of the region. The wide range of topics includes discoveries dating from prehistoric times to the Iron Ages, and both surface surveys and excavations.

Archaeology, History, and Formation of Identity in Ancient Israel

Capek, Filip
1. ed.
Karolinum Press, 2025
355 p. ; 23x16 cm.
9788024654171
49,84 €

A critical examination of the history of Israel. When did Israel begin? The origins of ancient Israel are shrouded in mystery, and those hoping to explore the issue must utilize resources from three different fields—archaeology, epigraphy, and biblical texts—and then examine their interrelations while keeping in mind that the name Israel was not used to describe just one state but referred to numerous entities at different times.

This volume honours Professor Aram Kosyan at the occasion of his 65th birthday and his academic career spanning over four decades. The twenty-eight essays by his colleagues from the international scientific community who contributed to this volume focus mostly on Bronze and Iron Age cultures of Anatolia and the Armenian Highlands, offering papers on history and archaeology, beliefs and religions of the Hittites, Luwians, and other ancient societies of these regions.

Cyprus and Ugarit : Connecting Material and Mercantile Worlds

Knapp, A. Bernard
1. ed.
Sidestone Press, 2024
104 p. ; 25x18 cm.
9789464263046
38,06 €

This study considers the detailed archaeological and documentary records of Cyprus and Ugarit (Syria) to gain new insights into the long-term relations between two of the best known, well-connected polities in the Late Bronze Age eastern Mediterranean.

I engage with concepts such as maritime space and spheres of interaction, merchants and mercantilism, actors and agents. Some background on both Ugarit and Cyprus is presented, followed by examination of the common material features of both (e.g.

Le premier rassemble les contributions sur le thème des capitales.

Divine Assemblies in Early Greek and Babylonian Epic

Ballesteros, Bernardo
1. ed.
Oxford University Press, 2024
(Oxford classical monographs)
496 p. ; 23x15 cm.
9780198924593
169,44 €

In early Greek and Near Eastern myth and religion, the gods govern the cosmos. In narrative poetry, they are frequently portrayed through scenes of divine assembly. Did Homer and early Greek poets inherit this feature from their more ancient neighbours? And what can comparison tell us besides? This book is the first to chart divine assembly scenes in ancient Babylonian and early Greek epic.

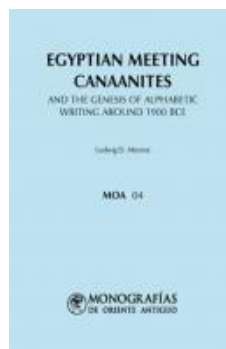

Edom in Judah : Trade, Migration, and Kinship in the Late Iron Age Southern Levant

Danielson, Andrew J.
1. ed.
Cambridge University Press, 2024
(Elements in The Archaeology of Ancient Israel)
100 p. ; 22x15 cm.
9781009424349
24,20 €

During the late Iron Age (800–539 BCE) in the semi-arid southern Levant, small competing kingdoms navigated a tenuous position between their local populace and the external empires who dominated the region. For kingdoms such as Judah and Edom, this period was also one of opportunity due to their location at the intersection of lucrative trade networks connecting the Mediterranean and Arabian worlds.

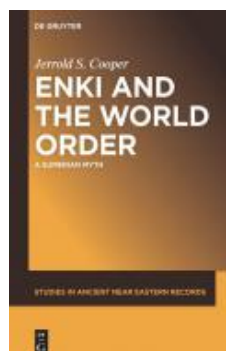

Egyptian meeting Canaanites : and the genesis of alphabetic writing around 1900 BCE

Morenz, Ludwig D.
1. ed.
Universidad de Alcalá, 2023
(Monografías de Oriente Antigo ; 4)
124 p. ; 24x17 cm.
9788419745279
20,00 €

Este ensayo es un intento de presentar una actualización de la investigación más reciente del Profesor Morenz sobre el origen del alfabeto (publicada mayormente en alemán), combinada con algunas nuevas interpretaciones (tanto generales como detalles específicos basados en una lectura minuciosa). Al analizar el origen de la escritura alfabética, el autor se centra en la fecundidad de los contactos interculturales entre egipcios y cananeos hace 4000 años.

Enki and the World Order : A Sumerian Myth

Cooper, Jerrold S.
1. ed.
Walter de Gruyter, 2024
(Studies in Ancient Near Eastern Records (SANER) ; 31)
229 p.
9781501522536
129,22 €

"Enki and the World Order," a Sumerian myth from the early second millennium BCE, depicts the god Enki's reconstitution of the Sumerian world after an unspecified catastrophe. The myth ends with a face-off between Enki and the goddess of love and war, Inana, who is dissatisfied with Enki's allotment of functions to the other goddesses.

A feast for beer geeks and history buffs alike, In the Land of Ninkasi tells the story of the world's first great beer culture.

In this authoritative but light-hearted account of beers gone by, archaeologist Tate Paulette brings the famous "land between the rivers" back to life in vivid detail.

Jerusalem through the Ages : From Its Beginnings to the Crusades

Magness, Jodi
1. ed.
Oxford University Press, 2024
624 p. ; 23x15 cm.
9780190937805
44,13 €

A major new history of one of the world's holiest of cities, based on the most recent archaeological discoveries

First settled five thousand years ago by a mountain spring between the Mediterranean and Dead Sea, Jerusalem was named for the god (Shalem) that was worshipped there. When David reportedly conquered the city, ca. 1000 BCE, he transferred the Ark of the Covenant—and with it, the presence of the God of Israel—to this rocky outcrop.

Judea under Greek and Roman Rule

Oxford University Press, 2024
(Essentials of Biblical Studies)
216 p. ; 2x14 cm.
9780190263249
101,09 €

This volume provides a reconstruction of the history of Judea and its neighboring regions from 334 BCE, when Alexander's eastward conquests brought Judea into the Greek empire, through 135 CE, when Hadrian re-founded Jerusalem as Aelia Capitolina and banished Jews from the city limits — a formative period both for early Judaism and the Christian movement.

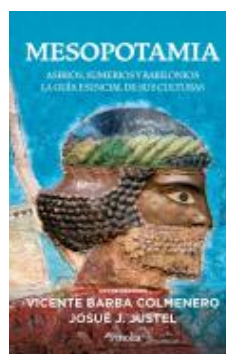

Living and Dying in Mesopotamia

Gadotti, Alhena
Kleinerman, Alexandra
1. ed.
Bloomsbury, 2024
312 p. ; 23x15 cm.
9781350301870
121,02 €

Exploring life, death, and the afterlife in Mesopotamia, Alhena Gadotti and Alexandra Kleinerman examine how life and death experiences continually developed over the course of nearly three millennia of Mesopotamian history. To achieve this, the book follows the life cycle of the people of the Tigris and Euphrates River valleys from 3000 BCE to 300 BCE, from birth, through death, and beyond.

The Archaeology of the "Margins" : Studies on Ancient West Asia in Honour of Peter M.M.G. Akkermans

Düring, Bleda S. (ed.)
Plug, Jo-Hannah (ed.)
1. ed.
Sidestone Press, 2024
(Analecta Praehistorica Leidensia ; 53)
310 p. ; 26x21 cm.
9789464262919
57,20 €

This book is a tribute to the remarkable achievements of Peter M.M.G. Akkermans in the archaeology of West Asia. A focus on previously overlooked periods and regions has been the hallmark of his work. Instead of investigating the traditional key transitions and core regions that have been central to the archaeology of West Asia, Peter always aimed to shed light on the 'in-between' periods and regions, often dismissed as being 'marginal' (in his words 'marginal to whom or what?').

The Assyrians : Lost Civilizations

Collins, Paul
1. ed.
The University of Chicago Press, 2024
(Lost Civilizations)
216 p. ; 21x13 cm.
9781789149234
35,60 €

An accessible guide to the history of the Assyrian empire from the perspective of its powerful elites.

At the height of its power near 660 BC, the Assyrian empire, centered in northern Iraq, wielded dominance from Egypt to Iran. This vast region was ruled by a series of kings who demonstrated their power with magnificent palaces adorned by sculptures depicting rituals, battles, and hunts.

The Changing Landscape of Israeli Archaeology : Between Hegemony and Marginalization

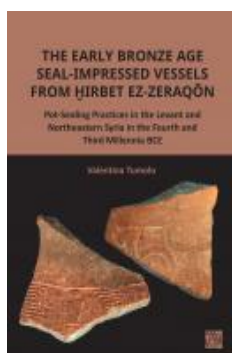

Katz, Hayah
1. ed.
Routledge, 2024
(Routledge Studies in Middle Eastern History)
140 p.
9781032487151
56,93 €

Focused on the connections between archaeology and Israeli society, this book examines the development of Israeli archaeological research, taking historical, sociological, and political contexts into account.

Adopting a Foucauldian framework of power and knowledge, the author begins by focusing on archaeological knowledge as a hegemonic discipline, buttressing the national Zionist identity after the establishment of the State of Israel.

The Early Bronze Age Seal-Impressed Vessels from Hirbet ez-Zeraqon : Pot-Sealing Practices in the Levant and Northeastern Syria in the Fourth and Third Millennium BCE

Tumolo, Valentina
1. ed.
Archaeopress, 2024
528 p. ; 29x20 cm.
9781803279039
149,50 €

Sealing practices were widespread across the Mediterranean and Southwest Asia from prehistoric to historic times. The practice of impressing ceramic vessels with seals before firing is relatively unusual, but appears to have been a flexible custom that emerged, disappeared and reemerged over time. Judging by the sheer number of instances, it was particularly important to the Early Bronze Age populations of the Levant.

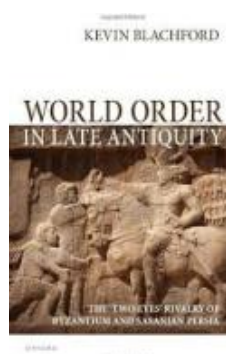

The Rule of the Association and Related Texts

Collins, John J.
Nati, James
1. ed.
Oxford University Press, 2024
(Oxford Commentary on the Dead Sea Scrolls)
320 p. ; 23x15 cm.
9780198845744
128,14 €

The Rule of the Association (1QS; Serek ha-Yahad) is the primary description of the sectarian community described in the Dead Sea Scrolls. It was one of the first Scrolls published, in 1951. Several related fragmentary scrolls subsequently came to light. This book provides text, translation, and commentary on all these manuscripts, with a substantial introduction that locates the Rule in the context of the sectarian movement.

World Order in Late Antiquity : The 'Two Eyes' Rivalry of Byzantium and Sasanian Persia

Blachford, Kevin
1. ed.
Oxford University Press, 2024
224 p. ; 23x15 cm.
9780198882138
140,96 €

The East Romans of Byzantium and the Sasanian Persians competed as geopolitical rivals for over four centuries between 224 to 628 AD. Through a series of intractable conflicts these two great empires would develop a dual hierarchy that sought to divide the known world between them. Despite competing claims to universal rule, mutual spheres of interest arose as both empires sought to create rules, norms, and standard practices of diplomatic behaviour to regulate their inter-imperial rivalry.
