

WILBERDING, J.: FORMS, SOULS, AND EMBRYOS. NEOPLATONISTS ON HUMAN REPRODUCTION

Chapter 1: The Embryological Background

General Background: Four Key Issues in Ancient Embryology

Embryology in Plato

Chapter 2: The Metaphysical Background

Metaphysical Models in Embryology

The Biological Development of the Theory of Forms

Chapter 3: Neoplatonic Embryology: The Core Theory

The One-Seed Theory

The Origin and Nature of the Seed

The Maternal Actualization of the Seed

Other External Factors in the Formation of the Offspring

Appendix to Chapter 3: Eclectic Theories

The Commentary on the Hippocratic On the Nature of the Child by John of Alexandria

Theophilus Protospatharius' On the Construction of the Human Being

Pseudo-Galen's De Spermate

Pseudo-Iamblichus' Theology of Arithmetic

Pseudo-Galen's Whether What is Carried in the Womb is a Living Thing

The Commentary on Aristotle's On the Generation of Animals by Michael of Ephesus

Michael's Interpretation of Aristotle's Embryology

Michael's Interpretation of Plato's Embryology

Chapter 4: Formation and Animation of the Embryo

The Order of the Embryo's Formation

The Animation of the Embryo

Chapter 5: The Problem of Teratogenesis