

STEVENS, S. T. / J. P. CONANT, EDS.: NORTH AFRICA UNDER BYZANTIUM AND EARLY ISLAM

S. T. Stevens / J. P. Conant: Introduction. Reimagining byzantine Africa

Contesting Byzantine Africa

A. Kaldellis: Procopius's Vandal war. Thematic trajectories and hidden transcripts

A. Merrills: Gelimer's slaughter. The case for late vandal Africa

E. Fentress / A. Wilson: The Saharan berber diaspora and the southern frontiers of byzantine North Africa

W. E. Kaegi: The islamic conquest and the defense of byzantine Africa. Reconsiderations on campaigns, conquests, and contexts

Shifting Structures of Daily Life

S. T. Stevens: Carthage in transition. From late byzantine city to medieval villages

P. von Rummel: The transformation of ancient land- and cityscapes in early medieval North Africa

M. Benabbès: The contribution of medieval arabic sources to the historical geography of byzantine Africa

P. Reynolds: From vandal Africa to Arab Ifriqiya. Tracing ceramic and economic trends through the fifth to the eleventh centuries

C. Morrisson: Regio dives in omnibus bonis ornata. The african economy from the vandals to the arab conquest in the light of coin evidence

Africa in the Christian Empire

J. P. Conant: Sanctity and the newworks of empire in byzantine North Africa

A. M. Yasin: Beyond spolia. Architectural memory and adaptation in the churches of late antique North Africa

K. Cooper. Marriage, law, and christian rhetoric in vandal Africa

L. Dossey: Exegesis and dissent in byzantine North Africa

G. Hays: Sounds from a silent land. The latin poetry of byzantine North Africa

P. Brown: Byzantine and early islamic Africa, ca. 500-800. Concluding remarks