ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This book is a considerably revised and, hopefully, improved version of my Ph.D. thesis, which I submitted and defended in 2019 at the University of Portsmouth. Thus, I wish to express my gratitude to Professor Wolfram Kaiser for being the helpful, dedicated and open supervisor that he was in those three and a half years. His consistently thorough, insightful and prompt feedback made my research project incommensurably better than it would have been otherwise. I want to also thank Professor Karen Heard-Lauréote, Dr. Nora Siklodi and Dr. Angela Crack for their encouragement and support prior to and throughout my Ph.D., as well as my Ph.D. colleagues at the time Andy Waterman and Milan Kreuschitz-Markovič for their friendship.

I am also grateful to Ambra Finotello from Palgrave Macmillan for supporting the book proposal and the anonymous peer reviewer who endorsed it while making very insightful and helpful suggestions. Special thanks go also to Geetha Chockalingam from Springer Nature for her prompt communication and flexibility throughout the whole process of writing and editing this book.

Last but not least, I wish to thank my family back home in Romania, my late mother Melania, my father Titi and my sister Ileana, for supporting me in more ways than I can think of. Most importantly, I am grateful to my wife and best friend Nicola, without whose love, support, trust and patience all this would have been an infinitely harder experience. Finally, many thanks to all my comrades from various places for the discussions and struggles that have informed many of the ideas that underlie this book.
