

Table of Contents

Angela Fabris (University of Klagenfurt), Albert Göschl (University of Graz),
Steffen Schneider (University of Graz)

Introduction — 1

Part I: Memories and Identities

Cristina Benussi (University of Trieste)

Tales of the Adriatic — 19

Sara Izzo (University of Bonn)

Interconnected Histories and Construction of Collective Memory: Theoretical Approaches to the Perception of the Mediterranean Sea as a Palimpsestic nœud de mémoire in French and Italian Literature — 33

Charikleia Magdalini Kefalidou (University of Strasbourg)

A story of two Shores: Transnational Memory and Ottoman Legacy in Modern Greek Novels — 47

Elisabeth Stadlinger (Vienna)

The Literary Construction of Mediterranean Identity: Memory and Myth in Maria Corti — 65

Adrian Grima (University of Malta)

Elusive Mediterraneans. Reading Beyond Nation — 85

Steffen Schneider (University of Graz)

The Forger as an Ambivalent Muse: Leonardo Sciascia's Novel Il Consiglio d'Egitto and the Mediterranean Memory of Sicily — 103

Part II: Social and Linguistic Spaces

Daniel G. König (University of Konstanz)

Latin-Arabic Literary Entanglement and the Concept of "Mediterranean Literature" — 123

Marianna Deganutti (LMU Munich)

Mapping the Mediterranean with Language: Matvejević's Mediterranean Breviary — 145

Karla Mallette (University of Michigan)

Territory / Frontiers / Routes: Space, Place and Language in the Mediterranean — 159

Part III: Fictional Spaces

Sharon Kinoshita (University of California, Santa Cruz)

"Avendo di servidori bisogno": Decameron 5.7 and the Medieval Mediterranean Slave Trade — 175

Roberta Morosini (University of Naples "L'Orientale")

For a Geo-Philology of the Sea. Writing Cartography, Mapping the Mediterranean Mare Historiarum, from Dante to Renaissance Islands Books — 193

Verena Ebermeier and Jonas Hock (University of Regensburg)

Concepts of Mediterranean Islandness from Ancient to Early Modern Times: A Philological Approach — 229

Marília Jöhnk (Goethe University Frankfurt)

Marseille and the Mediterranean in the Writings of Yoko Tawada and Tahar Ben Jelloun — 249

Angela Fabris (University of Klagenfurt)

Heterotopic and Striated Spaces in the Mediterranean Crime Fiction of Amara Lakhous and Jean-Claude Izzo — 261

Part IV: Conceptional Spaces

Albert Göschl (University of Graz)

A Mediterranean Utopia. The Renaissance Fiction of Plusiapolis as an Ideal of Mediterranean Connectivity — 283

Sophia Schnack (University of Vienna) / Daniel Winkler (Heidelberg University)
The pensée de midi Revisited: Mediterranean Connectivity Between Paul Arène, Albert Camus, and Louis Brauquier — 299

Stéphane Baquey (Aix-Marseille University)
The Possibility of the Mediterranean and the Contribution of Poetic Cross-Cultural Philologies During the Twentieth Century. Al-Andalus in the Poetry of Federico García Lorca, Louis Aragon, and Maḥmūd Darwīš — 317

Charles Sabatos (Yeditepe University) / C. Ceyhun Arslan (Koç University)
Đurišin's Interliterary Mediterranean as a Model for World Literature — 335

Serena Todesco (Zagreb)
A Female Mediterranean South? Italian Women Writers Gendering Spaces of Meridione: Nadia Terranova's Farewell ghosts (2018) — 349

Iain Chambers (University of Naples "L'Orientale")
Learning from the Sea: Migration and Maritime Archives — 381

Notes on Contributors — 395

Index nominum — 401

